That the Public are glad to see from the report of the Seamon's Chaplain that the work amongst seamen here is prospering and bearing fruit.

That Sunday-work in this port should be stopped in the interest of every member of the community, on the score alone of 'a sound mind in a sound body.' That if shipowners at Home and Merchants here would but study the matter a bit, they would find that their interests would not suffer, while the hard-worked seamen would warmly welcome their mercantile offices here, is too much for any constitution, and the Sunday rest ought to be made a hard and fast rule instead of the rare exception.

That there are some things which 'no fellow can understand, and the theory and practice of government in Hongkong, as handed down, is one of these. That I am afraid the Gap Rock has been placed on the shelf once more. That the Gun contract still remains unfulfilled, and will be a monument to Colonial Office incapacity and bad faith. That the Fever Commission will probably report after all of us have shuffled off this mortal coil except the Dectors.

That, by the way, your Reporter sade a Medical witness before the Commission -who, so far as I am aware, has not the excuse of being Scotch-to say that the smell in a certain neighbourhood could be felt.

fliat under the circumstances the expression was peculiarly appropriate, as many of the odours' pervading the neighbourhood referred to are quite tangible enough to be felt.

That Sandy generally can give a 'reason for the faith that is in him, and probably one would be forthcoming fully justifying the use of the word 'felt' in conflection with nasal attributes.

That caution is one thing, hesitation another; but we must be thankful for the modified boon of being allowed to hear our own financial arrangements discussed when, in the opinion of officials, there is no reason for closing the door upon the taxpayers.

That I am ourious to know what matters of finance it is desirable to hide from those who have to pay the piper, excepting details of armaments or other defences; and these were more fully made known by General Cameron, when he was acting Governor, than they had ever been be-

That any possible secrecy in such quarters. will throw the greater responsibility upon the unofficial members, who ought to fight persistently against this apirit of exclusiveness which is still abroad. That, with all respect to His Excellency, I think he might have been more firm and decided in his condemnation of all closed door' procedure. That we are probably not so far off a Constitution as some people think—given a little more Colonial Office high-handedness, and I should say a change would speedily That I quite agree with our City Pathers in thinking that the scarcity of small coins of the realm is a very great inconvenience; I have often felt it. That I regret to say that personally I feel the greater scarcity of the larger coinage a very much more serious inconvenience. and I trust they will speedily set about finding a remedy for that also. That at the same time it does seem strange that we cannot even keep up our supply of these small coins without everlastingly

HONGKONG CANTON AND MACAO STEAMBOAT COMPANY, LIMITED.

The ordinary half-yearly meeting of the shareholders of this Company was held at the office of the Company to-day, Hon. P. Ryrie presided, and there were also pre sent : Hon, J. Bell-Irving, Messra E. R. B. lilios and F. A. Gomes, directors, and Mesers D. McCulloch, E. George, A. S. Cohen, M. B. Polishwalla, E. B. Jorey, A. O'D. Gourdin, J. H. Cox, E. J. Coxon, and A. S. Garfit.

The Chairman said the business which he had to submit to them to-day was the adop. tion of the report of the directors and the passing of the accounts. The report and accounts had been before them now for about the usual time, and they would have fully acquainted themselves with the contents. The report itself gave pretty + xact particulars with regard to the various items in the accounts, and information as to how the earnings of the steamers had on the one hand increased and on the other hand decreased. Altogether the past six months were rather unsatisfactory. The steamers were running somewhat irregularly, and they had six steamers going, while now they were getting on with only five on the regular line. The Kinng-chow was now laid up and the others running steadily. The directors looked forward to the half year entered upon being a better one than the one for which they had now handed in the accounts. If any shareholder had any question to ask he would endeavour to answer it. He moved the adoption of the report

Hon: J. Bell-Irving moved the re-election of Mr A. O'D. Gourdin as auditor. Mr Jorey seconded, and the motion was carried.

The Chairman said the death of Mr Hauschild necessitated the election of an auditor in his place. They would join with him in expressing sympathy with his family. He had served as auditor for the Company for over 10 years, and it was with deep regret that they heard of his death. Mr Gomes proposed that Mr J. H. Cox be elected. Mr E. J. Coxon seconded, and the motion was carried. The Chairman said the dividend warrants would be ready on Monday. A vote. of thanks was passed to him, and the meet. ing separated.

A telegram from Gibraltar Dec. 27 states that the steamer Vesta reported that on the 25th justant she took in tow the steamer Benlaria, bound from London to China, with machinery broken down, but the Vesta was compelled to leave her in consequence of the tow-line parting. The Benlaria was left by the Vesta on the 26th, off Trafalgar. Late telegrams state that the steamer Adm ral Rooke, which was sent by Lloyd's agent at Gibraltar to the assistance of the stramer Benlaria, returned to Gibraltar on the 28th inst., not having succeeded in falling in with the Benlarig. but as soon as the circumstances permitted assistance would be sent. On the 23rd inst. a serious collision occurred on the river Mersey. It appears that the Spanish steamer Roclas, inward bound from Seville, owned by Messry M'Andrew and Co., Liverpool, and the steamers Cascapedia, outward bound for China, owned by Messrs Cray, Rudolf, and Co., collided, resulting in the sinking of the former. The crew were saved, and landed at the stage by the tug Sailor Prince. The Cascapedia sustained con siderable damage to bows and bulwarks. She struck the Roclas on the starboard side and it was then found that her injury was serious, although not so serious as it afterwards proved, but she listed slightly; her anchor was let go, and the pumps got to work. In spate of this the water gained and the tugs Despatch, Gipsy King, and Sailer Prince came to her assistance. Secing that she was filling, the Despatch made an attempt to pull her on to the bank, where she would have been dry at low wa ter, but her mooring chain held, and after two hours of ineffectual work the unfortunate steamer settled down a little south of the Duke's Dock and a little east of mid-

TO THE SPIRIT OF THE AGE. If I were you, in momente of reflection. Though writteism may be fair and true, I'd not go in too much for viviscetion,
If I were you.

I would not take the flowers of life and tear them Apart, their inner secrets all to view; I'd plack them gently, reverently wear them, If I were you. I'd leave some gomamer of tender fancies

In Life's wide meadow, general along with dew. Not to sweep them all before stern lact's advances, If I were you. If I were you I'd leave some twilight hours.
Twist glaring daylight and the night's black hue.
Some neutral-tinted scenes—some shady bowers,
If I were you.

I would not let the oil of teleration—
The samoness of one general width of view!
Subdue the free waves motion to stagnation. If I were you,

I'd not laugh down enthusiasm's fire

As antique and high-flown—I'd leave some few Sparks of a noble rage, a generous ire,

If I were you. And O ! amid the rush for wealth or pleasure,
And all the hurly-burly and to-do,
I'd leave some breathing space, some neeks of lelsure, Bome time for laying up th' enduring Treasure. If I were you.
